

Winners

To The Editor:

The Democratic Team of Kathy Hayes, Joe Zelinski and Tina Regan-Miller have represented themselves, the party and the town of Colton in a very professional and positive manner during the recent campaign season.

The candidates have been meeting weekly since early August preparing the platform and forums by which to get their message to the public.

They believe in what they are saying and what they are promising. They have demonstrated energy, intelligence and decisiveness. The work and the time has help to forge a team that will be ready to lead.

I am supporting these individuals and ask that you support them by casting your vote on Tuesday. This is a winning team with a winning attitude.

The town of Colton has an opportunity for change. I encourage you to bring about that change by voting Hayes, Zelinski and Regan-Miller.

Regan-Miller

To The Editor:

It is my pleasure to write in support of Tina Regan-Miller who is running for assessor of the town of Colton.

As a candidate for Assessor, Tina brings with her a number of years experience as a full-time, certified evaluator/tax assessor, and comes highly recommended by the assessment office of Monroe County, Pennsylvania.

Not only is she dedicated to her family but as a person with secure family and community values, she is an advocate for preserving the integrity of Colton township and will insure fairness and honesty throughout all assessment procedures.

Tina is not in favor of 100 percent assessment never has been and focuses only on truth and fair assessments for all property owners in the town of Colton.

Tina's diverse background and ability to multitask has her well prepared to face both common and complex assessment issues.

I urge you to vote for Tina Regan-Miller as assessor on Tuesday.
